

THE FUTURE BY DESIGN

The characteristics of Japanese design, according to influential designer Kenya Hara, are “detail, courteousness, subtlety and concision.” Through interviews with designers such as Hara, and introductions to some exemplary new products and technologies, this month’s Feature highlights the distinctive traits of Japanese design today and throws light on how design will shape the way society in the future looks and behaves.